Program

Model of Excellence in Agricultural Education

Riley Hintzsche

Presenters: Instructors Riley Hintzsche and Gwen Heimerdinger

Student Presenters: Sydney Long, Palmer Phillis, and Alexis Walkling

Throughout the nation, agricultural education programs are ranked by the National Chapter Award. In 2022, the Streator Ag Program was named the Premier Ag Program in Illinois and was also awarded the National Model of Excellence Program as one of the top three out of 8,817 programs nationally. The National Chapter Award demonstrates how agricultural programs provide students with opportunities to grow their community through Building Community, develop leadership skills through Growing Leaders, and educate people about agriculture through Strengthening Agriculture.

The Streator Ag Program instructors will share experiences in agricultural education and how they collaborate to develop opportunities for student success and community involvement. Members of the Streator Future Farmers of America Chapter will highlight activities and events that have allowed them to develop premier leadership, personal growth, and career success through agricultural education. A strong ag program starts with a strong and supportive school board and administration! Allow us to show you how you can implement a strong ag program in your community.
